Federal Supreme Court

Limited Constitutional Review

Art. 190 Cst. Applicable Law

“The Federal Supreme Court and the other judicial authorities apply the federal acts and international law.”

→ Federal acts must be applied by courts even if they are unconstitutional

Aspects that minimize the lack of a constitutional review of federal acts:

- The Federal Supreme Court interprets (also) federal acts in conformity with the Constitution
- It is not prevented from stating that a federal act is unconstitutional
- It can, and does, review federal acts for their conformity with the ECHR

Initiative for the expulsion of foreign criminals

- 28 November 2010: Popular initiative for the expulsion of foreign criminals approved by a majority of the people and the cantons
- Art. 121(3)-(6) added to the Constitution:

Art. 121(3) Cst.

³ Irrespective of their status under the law on foreign nationals, foreign nationals shall lose their right of residence and all other legal rights to remain in Switzerland if they:

- a. are convicted with legal binding effect of an offence of intentional homicide, rape or any other serious sexual offence, any other violent offence such as robbery, the offences of trafficking in human beings or in drugs, or a burglary offence; or
- b. have improperly claimed social insurance or social assistance benefits.

- 12 October 2012: The Supreme Court holds in BGE 139 I 16 that Art. 121(3)-(6) Cst.
 - are not directly applicable and therefore first need to be implemented by the legislator
 - do not take precedence over the principle of proportionality and the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution or the guarantees of the ECHR
- 20 March 2015: The Federal Assembly implements Art. 121(3)-(6) Cst. by amending the Criminal Code: Art. 66a(2): «The court may by way of exception refrain from ordering expulsion if it would cause serious personal hardship to the foreign national...»
- 28 February 2016: The people and the cantons reject the «popular initiative for the effective expulsion of foreign criminals»

Mass immigration initiative

- 9 February 2014: Popular initiative “against mass immigration” approved by a majority of the people and the cantons
- Art. 121a added to the Constitution
- Art. 121a Control of immigration
 - ¹ Switzerland shall control the immigration of foreign nationals autonomously.
 - ² The number of residence permits for foreign nationals in Switzerland shall be restricted by annual quantitative limits and quotas. The quantitative limits apply to all permits issued under legislation on foreign nationals, including those related to asylum matters. The right to permanent residence, family reunification and social benefits may be restricted.
- 26 November 2015: The Federal Supreme Court holds in BGE 142 II 35 that the Agreement with the EU on the Free Movement of Persons takes precedence over any federal acts implementing Art. 121a Cst.
- December 2016: The Federal Assembly implements Art. 121a Cst. in a way that is compatible with the Free Movement Agreement (priority treatment for jobseekers who are registered with employment centres)
- 27 September 2020: The people and the cantons reject the popular initiative “for restrained immigration”, which demanded the termination of the Free Movement Agreement

Thank you!
